Statement from Rise Light & Power CEO Clint Plummer on New York Governor Kathy Hochul's State of the State Address

“In her State of the State, Governor Hochul articulated a compelling vision for a clean energy future. Her proposal to repower fossil-based power plants with renewable energies like offshore wind positions New York to lead the nation in tackling climate change.

“Rise Light & Power shares this vision. As owner of New York’s largest fossil-based power plant, we not only recognize the need for reliable energy today, but also for a clean environment tomorrow. We have exciting plans for the transformation of the Ravenswood Station into a hub for clean energy and look forward to partnering with Governor Hochul to deliver clean, reliable energy to the people of New York. There is much more to come.”
